FEATURING NEW ZEALAND'S NEWEST SINGING SENSATION !!

Elizabeth Marvelly is a young woman of rare talent, and is being hailed as the new singing sensation, and it appears justly so. Only three New Zealanders have had international recording contracts with EMI Classics in the last ten years, Elizabeth being the third and most recent.

The beautiful teenager knew from a very young age that she wanted to perform.

Now the young New Zealander is living her dream, inspired by everyone from operatic greats through to All Black heroes.

In the past few months, she has been honoured by the Variety Artists Club of New Zealand as its "rising star" for 2007.

Under the astute guidance of Gray Bartlett MBE and NZEA Ltd, whose stable of discoveries include Hayley Westenra, Yulia Townsend, Ben Morrison and Will Martin, Elizabeth was presented to EMI (UK) President of Classics and Jazz, Costa Pilavachi, as the face and voice of the future, in cross-over classical-pop.

"Elizabeth Marvelly has the excitement and wide-range of talent to very quickly be a world star. Her abilities range from acting, drama, public speaking through to singing and stage," says Bartlett.

His sentiment is echoed by Pilavachi, who says of Elizabeth "She is a very accomplished and special young lady".
